Should Indigenous Peoples Have Rights In Our Society

They Do Not Need Rights

Reason 1 – Aboriginals will take advantage of their rights

Have you ever thought of the fact that Indigenous people will take advantage of the rights that will be given to them? As soon as they are given rights, they will use their power against us, just because we apparently treat them the wrong way. Seriously, do you want them to take over our already perfect country? I think not. They also just won't cooperate with the more superior white people.

Reason 2 – They want their land back

We are obviously more powerful and the primary race here and that is why we own the land. Who really cares about their 'special' and 'symbolic' land marks. If they get rights they will just fight us for their land back where we have already built our vital farms, hospitals and towns.

Reason 3 – They make false statements and stories

Who actually believes that a giant rainbow snake slithered along the ground and created Earth and Australia. They cannot just make up false stories about the land and sea and pass it on to the next generation of Aboriginals, it's just wrong. Poisoning the minds of children everywhere, making them not believe in science. Why do they do that?
